CONDITION OF C. N. ERICH YES TERDAY AND LAST NIGHT.

What His Physician Thinks of the Interesting Case-Some Interesting Statistics.

Late last evening an APPRAL re-porter called at the office of Dr. Alex-ander Esskine, who has charge of the case of Mr. C. N. Eirich, and who has been the family physician ever since his marriage. Dr. Erekine said it was his opinion that his patient would die within the next forty-eight hours. His temperature, which was reduced by the application of cold cloths to 101 yesterday morning, had risen to 104 at 6 o'clock, the cloth having been removed in the meantime. His respiration was forty-eight, and there were various unfavorable symptoms, unfavorable in spite of the fact that he moved one of his arms at one time, and on several occasions opened his

During the course of his remarks, Dr. Erskine referred to volume 2, International Encyclopedia of Surgery, which under the head of "Prognosis," says: The prognosis of these injuries (those of the scalp and brain), though much affected by the nature of the wound, is always grave. The danger is chiefly due to merengo-encephalitis, which may be developed at an early period, or as is more usual after a number of necessarily, associated with an open wound when lodgment of a foreign developing cause of brain suppuration even years after apparent recovery has taken place. In the Crimeau war 74 death than one of the posterior. This is by no means certain. In the 316 cases of penetration and lodgment analyzed by H. R. Wharton, in which 279 were gunshot injuries, the relative mortality of wounds through the frontal, parietal and occipital bones was respectively, 44 per cent. (58 out of 132), 46.5 per cent. (27 out of 58), and 70 per cent. (16 out of 23), while the death rate of those of the temporal bone was but 38.7 per cent. A Very Stale, Flat and Unprofitable Meeting on the Bluff Last Night.

About two hundred darkies went out on the bluff last night to assist the brass band and the bosses in ratifying the nominations of the Republican ticket. About 500 good and true Democrate, attracted by the breeze and the fi-re of the lamps, went out to see the fun. The Hon. W. J. Smith acted as chairman, and after a few introductory remarks, introduced the speakers: J. W. VERNON, a candidate for Judge of the Circuit Court, objected to the advice given by the newspapers to the Democrats to "do their whole duty." He insinuated, but lacked the courage to charge openly, that a Democrat to do his whole duty must be less than honest and more than realous—that he must use more than zealous-that he must use all means, fair and foul, to elect the ticket put forth by the party. This was the burden of his monotonous song. He laid a great deal of stress upon the statement that the nominees of the Democratic party were his warm personal friends. He insisted upon this, as all of the speakers did, evidently anxious to borrow some of their light by reflection. JOHN T. MOSS was next introduced, and the band stole silently away at the first note of his voice. Mr. Moss blew his own trumpet in the most vigorous style for twenty minutes. He said he had been a practicing attorney in the Criminal Court for sixteen years, but did not call attention to the fact that he had been engaged in any case of importance in that or any other court during all that time. He denied that he was incompetent to fill the office and that it would be a calamity to put him there. He said that if elected he would in-fuse his "young blood" into the court, and wound up with a brilliant peroration of his record as yellow fever hero, forgetting to mention that he received

$10 a day for his services. THOMAS J. BEOGAN. There was no horn to toot an introduction of Thomas J. Brogan, except the home made trumpet of Gen. Smith. But had the entire brass band been present its music must have been drowned in the flare of Mr. Brogan's private trombone. He said he had been a true friend of the workinguan in the Legislature, in fact that he had made a record which he and his party had reason to be proud of. He was not contradicted when he admitted that he could not when he admitted that he could not make a speech. Oratory, he declared, was not his forte. That, he said modestly, was hustling—hustling over fields and fences and up back alleys. Mr. Brogan closed with an expression of touching regard for his opponent. If there were two clerks of the Criminal Court to be elected he knew of no man whom he would prefer to fill the other than Mr. Capers, but as there was only one, he preferred Brogan.

JUDGE ELDRIDGE. In good cld camp meeting style Judge Eldridge thanked the Lord for permitting him to appear before so eyes and looked about the room as if isrge and cultured an audience as a candidate for Judge of the Probate searching for some one.
"The bullet did not pierce his brain Court. And then the Judge made some of his old friends in the audifor him by his ence blush praise tof his administration of the office for the past eight years. He promised to give good advice to all the widows and orphans who might come before him, but forgot to give his pledge to go to work and untangle the vast pile of business which has accumulated in his office and to untie the red tape and release the money of the helpless women who have pleade d for gettlements in vain for so long.

NO NEGRO CANDIDATES PRESENT. Gen. Smith called for Norris and Fields, the two darky candidates, and evidently felt that the negroes would not go away so well satisfied if only white speakers were heard. They did not answer, and he named a darky who was probably selected with the idea that for prejudice and vindictive-ness, at lesst, he was worth half a dozen ordinary colored men-Ed Shaw. This sweet morsel, however, was saved to the last, that mountain first addressing the crowd. He said be did not have anybody to thank. The newspapers had chewed his ears too vigorously to arouse any great smount of gratitude, and as for the independent ticket, he would not allow days, in the latter part of the second his name to be used on it, and he week, and is ordinarily, though not sneered at the Republicans who had. He said a great many flings had been wound when lodgment of a foreign made at him, but consoled himself with the proverb that "chunks are never eign body remains. It may prove the trees." He was a good apple, he declared. In a word, anyone willing to take Mr. Haynes's word for it must per cent. of cranial injuries proved have been convinced that he was a fatal (711 out of 961), and during our lawyer of ability, of great ability, in late war the mortality rate was 59.2 fact. He wanted it distinctly underper cent. (2614 out of 4243 cases, the results of which were ascertained). It charge of violating the law by keeping is generally held with Guthrie that a pool room, and he concluded wound of the anterior part of the head is more likely to cause Blaine and the entire Republican party. Except for the Republican party he declared this would not be a free country today. In thus thundering forth the fact that he was a Republican and that he claimed the office on that ground, he was more honest than his brother candidates, who put their politics in the background and argued simply that they were better men than their respective opponents.

ED SHAW CLOSES. The jambores closed with a typical tirade of vindictive abuse by Ed Shaw, who hopes to ride on the topmost wave after August, and will do so unless the Democratic party presents a united front.

THE OLD AND NEW WATER COM-PANIES MAKE OFFERS

To Farnish a Supply on Their Own Account or for the City.

The chief business of the Council yesterday, and indeed the reason for for calling it, was the water question. The ball was opened by the reading of the following report of the joint committee:

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT. MEMPRIS, TEXX., July 12, 1886. The Hon. D P. Hadden, President, etc. :

Sin-The undersigned committee, appointed to consider questions con-nected with the Water Company, met this afternoon at No. 16 Madison street, H. A. Montgomery and R. F. Patterson on the part of the Legislative Council, T. J. Latham and W. S. Bruce on the part of the Water Company. W. M. Farrington, having been selected by the other members of the committee to act with them, was also present and presided as chairman of the meeting. After a full interchange of views, the committee respectfully recommend to the Legislative Council to consider a proposition to be made by the Memphis Water Company for the sale of its plant to the city, or to make a new contract for supplying the city and its inhabitants with an abundance of pure and wholesome water, the source of supply to be designated by the City Legislative Council.

The above embodies the action of the committee, which is respectfully submitted for your consideration. Very respectfully,

WM. M. FARRINGTON, Chairman: H. A. MONTGOMRRY, R. F. PATTERSON, T. J. LATHAM, W. S. BRUCE. The Cit'zens' Water Company preented a petition, written in a clerkly hand upon paper with a gorgeously printed head giving the officers as follows: Sam'l R. Bullock, president; Noland Fontaine, vice president; W. H. Moore, secretary; E. F. Fuller, chief engineer; Hill & Wilkerson, attorneys; Emil Waltman treasurer. THE PETITION. which was dated Memphis, July 14, and addressed to the Council, ran as follows: GENTLEMEN—The action taken by the Memphis Water Company through their authorized officers, in making to your honorable body a proposition re-lating to the question of a water sup-ply for your city and the subsequent action of your body in sppointing a committee to take action in the matter, forces us to come before you sooner than we had intended or satisfipated. We have organized in your city a water company for the purpose of supplying to the city of Memphis and to its inhabitants and adequate supply of good, wholesome water, fit for all purposes of domestic consumption. The said company is composed of and represented by men of undoubted and of established reputation both here and abroad. We propose to prepare and submit for your scrutiny and approval a set of plans showing and governing the construction of said system of works, and to ask at the same time from your city government such concession and encouragement as will enable us to proceed at once wth this construc-

The proposition we shall make to scale, and of such capacity as will amply suffice for a city of at least twice the present size of Memphia. We will propose to operate the said works as a private company for a term of years, or to give to the city the option to become sole owner of same by such terms of purchase as may be upon, and to submit to the city ing, under the provisions of our charter, the source from which the supply shall be taken.

The magnitude of the undertaking and the difficult problems brought forward for solution render the preparation of our plans a task requiring some time to complete. We have now a corps of engineers in the field engaged in their preparation and at the earliest possible day will submit our proposition for your consideration. Under these circumstances we would ask that you delay action in regard to any contract for the public and private water supply of your city until we can present to you our plans and proposals and that your committee be instructed to confer with our representatives before making their report. Respectfully submitted, CITIZENS WATER COMPANY, SAM'L R. BULLLOCK, President. BULLOCK & CO,'S LETTER. Mr. Hill then read the following letter from Bullock & Co. to the Citizens' Water Company: NEW YORK, MAY 6, 1886 OFFICE OF SAM R. BULLOCK & Co., NO. 11 WALL STREET.

To the Citizens' Water Company, Memphis, Tenn.:

GENTLEMEN-Having learned that your company has been organized for the purpose of obtaining and furnishing to the citizens of Memphis an adequate supply of pure, wholesome water, suitable for domestic, sanitary, manufacturing and fire extinguishing purposes, and having further learned that the water which would be most acceptable to yourselves and the citi-zens of Memphis would be that ob-tained from the channel of the Miseissippi river, We present for your consideration the following proposition: We will, at our own proper cost and expense, make such surveys, compile such data, prepare such plans and specifications, and obtain the corroborative testimony of not less than three eminent, disinterested hydraulic engineers, which will enable you to present to the President and Board of Commissioners of the Taxing District of Memphis such evidence of your ability to accomplish what you claim upon such advantageous terms as will, in all probability, result in the passage by them of an ordinance embodying such form of contract between said Taxing District of Memphis and your company as will enable you at once to enter upon the construction of a sys-tem of water supply in accordance with the foregoing.

Provided, that when such consummation shall have reached your company shall agree to execute a contract for the entire work of constructing such water works with our firm, pay-ment for said works, and all salaries and expenses connected therewith to be made to our firm in stock and bonds of your company to such amounts as may be necessary. Yours respectfully. Sam R. Bullock & Co. The above is a copy of the original, and is exhibit A, and part of the min-

The following telegram was also read:

Hill & Wilkerson, Memphis: Impossible for Mr. Bullock to be in Memphis before August 1st, prefer, if possible, to have petition presented and continued until August 15, or thereabouts. Answer. SAM R. BULLOCK & CO.

JUDGE LATHAM HEARD FROM, President Latham, of the Memphis Water Company, said he was glad to know his friend Mr. Hill had advanced sufficiently in his study of hydraulics to learn that it would require $1,500, 000 to build new and ample but it surprised him to hear Mr. Hill of all others, proposing to bring water from Wolf river, astream which was being abused by the whole city. He then read the following:

To the Legislative Council of the Taxing District of Shulby County, Tenn.: On the 8th instant the Council ap pointed a conference committee to consider the questions: 1. As to the city's ownership of water works, and should that te decided in the negative, then How best to secure an adequate supply of clear, wholesome water?

The report of that committee is be-1. That the Council consider a proposition from the water company to sell its plant to the city.

It will be remembered that this discussion arose three years ago in the city press, which was undivided in its advocacy of city ownership. A later and more direct expression is seen in the appointment, one year ago, of the committee of ten cit zens. Still stronger evidence is found in the unanimous report of said committee, made six months ago, and which, so far as I am advised, is unexcepted to. In oft re-reated interviews, during the last year, with members of the City Council and of the Citizens'Committee, I have heard no other sentiment expressed. Indeed, it is generally known that the city proposes to ask for the necessary authority on the assembling of the Legislature. But no decisive action having been taken, I deemed it due alike to the public and to the water company, for reasons stated before you on the 8th inst., to respectfully ask such action in the premises] as would secure an authoritative decision. I fully understand that the Conneil must have additional authority from the Legislature. But "where there's a will, there's a way." I assume public sentiment to be practically undivided. It is certain that public confidence in the ability of the Council to drive close trades is justly unbounded. If the Council, after the most searching investigation into the value of our plant, which we unreservedly invite, shall agree on terms with the water company, cannot a plan be devised for guaranteeing the action of the Council until the meeting of the Legislature? I suggest here no details, but several plane occur to me. Certainly the public has that much faith in the city and in the Council. If the Council agrees with the Citizens Committee and is satisfied that public sentiment is in favor of city ownership, let it select without delay two experts, and the water company will select two, the four to choose a fifth, and we will accept the price they fix, as provided in our charter. It is not for me, a party in interest, to advise, but it may be permitted me to add:

1. The people will not in my opin-ion be satisfied until they own the water supply.

2. If the works are profitable to the water company, why not more so to the city?

The salary of a president and per-haps others could be saved; the city's sewer inspector could at same time inspect the water service, and with an authority that would control a waste you will contemplate the furnishing greater than the legitimate consumpof a system of works, built upon such | tion, thus saving in salaries, pay rolls and fuel thousands of dollars annually. Should the Council decide not to own water works, the said Conference Committee recommended:

3. That the city and water company consider a new contract, based on an abundant supply of clear, wholesome water. Such a contract we are ready to make and proceed with without delay, should the first recommendation fail. I bespeak the speediest action, consistent with due deliberation, and a proper regard for the public interest.

Respectfully submitted, T. J. LATHAM, President Memphis Water Co. Both papers were received and filed and Mr. Hill was given until August 15th to have his stock subscription and proposition ready. Adjourned.

KNOCKED OUT of a Skiff Into the River, but Scrambled Ashere.

Late vesterday evening a couple of inebriated individua's entered a skiff near the Kansas City incline to take a ride on the river, but shortly after they shoved out from the bank they got into a dispute. They exchanged a few blows and one of them, name unknown, selzed an car and knocked his competitor, H. B. Sykes, a printer, out of the skiff. He sank beneath the surface, but the cold water revived him, and, rising, he managed to seize one of the pieces of the trest'e and got ashore.
